3. Appendix A to this paper provides a history of previous discussions with the IAASB CAG and the IAASB on this topic, including links to the relevant IAASB CAG documentation.

IAASB Interaction with the IAASB CAG with Respect to Draft ISA 220 (Revised)

4. The substantive issues being raised for the purposes of the March 2020 IAASB meeting are included in this paper and Agenda Items D.1–D.3. Accordingly, this serves as the final discussion of ISA 220 (Revised) prior to its anticipated approval by the IAASB in June 2020.

5. Representatives and Observers may wish to take this opportunity to comment on the IAASB's interaction with the CAG during the development and finalization of ISA 220 (Revised).

Activities of the IAASB and the ISA 220 Task Force and IAASB-IESBA Coordination

6. Since the September 2019 IAASB CAG meeting, the IAASB has further considered the matters discussed with the CAG and other matters raised by respondents to ED-220 (which were discussed at the December 2019 IAASB meeting). Those matters are highlighted in Agenda Item D.1.

7. At the March 2020 IAASB meeting, the IAASB will discuss the full proposed standard. Agenda Item 2-B of the IAASB agenda papers presents a clean version of the proposed full standard (provided to

11. Agenda Item D.2, which accompanies this cover note, is the ISA 220 Issues Paper that will be presented at the March 2020 IAASB meeting.

12. In navigating Agenda Item D.2, which is an IAASB Board paper, Representatives are requested to note the following:
   • The questions in Agenda Item D.2 are those that will be posed to the IAASB, and therefore, Representatives are not being asked to respond to these questions. The questions that are being asked of CAG Representatives are outlined below.
   • Agenda Item D.2 includes references to other Agenda Items that will be presented at the March 2020 IAASB meeting (e.g., the draft illustrative example). These Agenda Items have not been provided to Representatives for the purposes of the CAG discussion, but if CAG members would like to access these papers, they will be available at: https://www.iaasb.org/meetings/iaasb-board-meeting-new-york-usa-0.

13. Appendix A to this paper provides a history of previous discussions with the IAASB CAG and the IAASB on proposed ISA 220, including links to the relevant IAASB CAG agenda papers and minutes of meetings.

14. Appendix B to this paper includes extracts from the draft minutes of September 2019 IAASB CAG meeting, as well as an indication of how the Task Force or IAASB has responded to the Representatives’ comments.
Matters for IAASB CAG Consideration

Report-Back on Matters Discussed at the September 2019 CAG Meeting

Extracts from the draft minutes of the September 2019 IAASB CAG meeting, as well as an indication of how the Task Force or IAASB has responded to the Representatives' comments, are included in the table below.

<td>Mmes. Zietsman and Manabat agreed that the engagement partner remains accountable for quality on the audit overall. Ms. Zietsman also indicated that she did not support the view of some respondents that the engagement partner could share responsibility for the audit. However, she noted that on larger engagements, supervisory roles are necessary.</td>
<td>Ms. Provost noted these comments. Proposed ISA 220 (Revised) in Agenda Item D.3 retains the engagement partner’s overall responsibility for audit quality and clearly distinguishes between requirements that are the engagement partner’s sole responsibility to fulfill, and those for which certain procedures, tasks or actions may be assigned to other engagement team members to assist the engagement partner (as described further under Scalability below).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mmes. Meng and Zietsman and Mr. Hansen did not find the analysis in Appendix 6 to Agenda Item G.1 to be helpful because it may have unintended consequences and could be confusing. Ms. Zietsman noted that the references to ‘assistance from other audit team members’ could be read as implying that the engagement partner’s responsibility for achieving audit quality is alleviated. She and Mr. Hansen agreed that the engagement partner retains overall responsibility for quality on the audit, and must be involved in cases when procedures, tasks or actions are assigned to other engagement team members to assist the partner in fulfilling the requirements in ED-220. In addition, there are certain actions the partner needs to take without assistance from engagement team members.</td>
<td>Ms. Provost noted Representatives’ concerns with Appendix 6 and that the appendix was not intended to imply that the engagement partner did not remain responsible when certain procedures, tasks or actions were assigned to other engagement team members. The Task Force has emphasized the engagement partner’s overall responsibility for quality in the changes proposed on the assignment of tasks (formerly Appendix 6).</td>

<td>Mr. Yurdakul asked which partner is to be held responsible if there is more than one partner on the engagement team as this matter is not addressed in ED-220. He questioned if it would be the senior partner.</td>
<td>Point noted. In paragraph 12(a) of Agenda Item D.3, the engagement partner is defined and in paragraph 13 it has been made clear that the engagement partner has overall responsibility for achieving quality on the engagement, including in cases when there is more than one “partner” on the engagement team. The Task Force has developed a draft illustrative example to show that the requirements are achievable in audits of entities whose nature and circumstances are more complex.</td>

Ms. Zietsman expressed support for the proposed changes to paragraph 13. | Support noted. |

ENGAGEMENT TEAM DEFINITION

Mr. Thompson and Ms. McGeachy questioned how the definition works practically in group audits and would link with ISA 600,³ particularly the direction and supervision of the work of component auditors. | Point noted. The ISA 220 Task Force has worked closely with the ISA 600 Task Force to clarify expectations regarding the direction and supervision of component auditors and the review of their work. |

Mr. Thompson noted that the definition in ED-220 may lead to an unintended consequence that all group audits would be done within a network. He questioned whether that outcome would enhance audit quality. Ms. Zietsman indicated that it was not practically possible for many audits to be done by a single network only because of mandatory rotation rules in different jurisdictions. | The Task Force agreed with Ms. Zietsman and does not believe that it is likely that audits will be conducted by a single network. This is because rotation rules differ between jurisdictions, and so it would be difficult for large audits to be conducted solely by a single firm. |

Ms. McGeachy questioned how the definition takes account of engagement teams with members operating in different jurisdictions that have different independence requirements, and how such differences would be resolved. | Proposed ISA 220 (Revised) now contains additional guidance that addresses the relevant ethical requirements, including independence (see paragraphs A23–A25 of Agenda Item D.3). In addition, as a result of the coordination with |

<td>IESBA, IESBA is presenting a project proposal at its March 2020 meeting addressing the independence requirements of component auditors.</td>
<td>Support noted.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ms. Zietsman noted that the definition in ED-220 is consistent with the PCAOB’s work related to supervision of the work of other auditors. She stressed the importance of retaining the fundamental premise that the engagement partner has overall responsibility for quality on the audit. She also indicated that it is possible to reconcile different ethical requirements for different engagement team members; noting that the IESBA Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (IESBA Code) allows for variations for different members.</td>
<td>Ms. Provost agreed with Ms. Zietsman and noted that there is a balance required between the procedures, tasks and actions related to the requirements the engagement partner must fulfil personally and those that could be assigned. She stressed, however, that the fundamental principle that the engagement partner cannot delegate responsibility for managing and achieving quality on the audit. As described under Scalability, the IAASB supported the task force proposals for clarifying the requirements for which the engagement partner retains sole responsibility, and those where assignment of procedures, tasks or actions to other engagement team members is permitted.</td>
<tr>
<td>Ms. Zietsman noted that the ISAs are intended to be principles-based standards. Mr. Thompson noted that large engagement teams cannot be managed by a single person. Messrs. Dalkin and Thompson noted that delegation of work to other engagement team members does not mean that the engagement partner is no longer responsible for complying with the requirement.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ms. Zietsman did not support including the alternative in Appendix 7, i.e. to move the engagement team definition to ISA 600. She noted that the revisions to the engagement team definition proposed in ED-220 were intended to address evolving structures of engagement teams that include shared service</td>
<td>Point accepted. The IAASB agreed that the definition should be retained in proposed ISA 220 (Revised).</td>

She highlighted that ISA 600 deals with group audits, rather than all other auditors involved in the audit, so it would be difficult to fit these evolving audit delivery models into ISA 600. She also noted that coordination with IESBA was important but that the IAASB should not depart from the original intent of the revision to the definition.</td>

Scalability

Messrs. Dalkin and Hansen noted the importance of appropriate delegation, i.e., putting the right people in right places to perform the work, to scalability of the audit process.

Point accepted. Ms. Provost noted the Representatives’ comments on the need to achieve a balance between delegation and retaining overall responsibility by the engagement partner.

As noted above, the Task Force has clarified, the requirements for which the engagement partner has sole responsibility to fulfill, and those for which certain procedures, tasks or actions may be assigned to other engagement team members to assist the engagement partner.

Mr. Dalkin noted the importance of retaining a principles-based approach. While he noted that respondents to ED-220 did not identify length and complexity as a concern, he cautioned that a prescriptive approach could lead to increased length and complexity.

Point accepted. Ms. Provost agreed with the need to strike a balance between principle and practice in finalizing the proposed standard.

Other Matters

Mr. Thompson questioned what changes would be required to extant ISA 600 during the period when ISA 600 is exposed for public comment and ISA 220 (Revised) is approved.

Point noted. Ms. Provost indicated that the Chair of the ISA 600 Task Force is also a member of the ISA 220 Task Force.

She also noted that conforming changes would be required to extant ISA 600 and that the ISA 220 Task Force was also considering developing implementation guidance on the practical considerations.
